

SOCIAL MEDIA GUIDELINES

Thank you for visiting Penn Live Arts' social media pages. We encourage you to participate in the conversations and community of these platforms.

We are committed to fostering a welcoming and supportive environment that embraces diversity, equity, inclusion and accessibility. To this end, we prohibit content that:

- contains abusive, offensive or vulgar language
- displays or promotes discrimination towards an individual or group of individuals
- contains personally identifiable information
- constitutes spam, including repetitive or automated posts
- promotes products or services, particularly those unrelated to the thread or discussion
- harasses, attacks or violates the rights of anyone else

We reserve the right to moderate all posts on our pages and to edit and/or remove any content that we determine, at our sole discretion, violates any of the above terms or is otherwise inappropriate.

We are thankful to share this space with you; please help us to keep it safe, respectful and enjoyable for everyone. If you see content that violates these guidelines, please report it for review. For any other questions or concerns regarding content or interactions on our social media channels, please contact socialmedia@pennlivearts.org.
